General Comment

While I'm sure you're well meaning in this legislation it's wrong to regulate your way into the use of options contracts in IRA's.

The strategies allowed currently are not speculative and do not involve any leverage so I'm not sure why it's even included in a proposed rule revolving around conflict of interest.

In short please leave our ability to use options strategies in IRA's alone. It has no relevance to the general nature of this proposed rule.

Robert Bronk
